“Deeply personal issues are part of the fabric of any school community. It takes clear thinking, effective communication, and empathy for others to find solutions for all.”

Shellie Hoffman Crow is a proud supporter of Texas public schools. This graduate of the Texas public school system, daughter of a Texas public school teacher, and mother of a University of Texas student educated in the Austin public school system, has represented Texas public school districts for her entire legal career.

Shellie is a frequent speaker at regional, statewide and national seminars on such topics as religious issues in schools, student discipline, bullying, employment and personnel issues, and school board training requirements.

Before joining Walsh Gallegos in 2001, Shellie served as a staff attorney and the Director of Legal Services at the Texas Association of School Boards (TASB) for more than 10 years. She is a former Chair of the School Law Section of the State Bar of Texas and served on the Board of Directors of the National School Boards Association Council of School Attorneys.
