“Education is the bedrock of our society. We are here to protect those who strengthen and nurture that bedrock everyday.”

Alicia began her career as a kindergarten teacher. Over the course of her 30 years in education, she has experienced everything from writing lesson plans to expulsion hearings and everything in-between.

A 2009 graduate of The University of Oklahoma College of Law, Alicia began her legal career with a private law firm in Texas focusing on general education law, special education, employment, and contracts. Alicia then worked for the Oklahoma State Department of Education as an Executive Director where her focus was on teacher and leader training and evaluation. Alicia has also been a Legal Analyst for Oklahoma City Public Schools with a concentration in investigations and policy. As a Director for the University of Oklahoma College of Law, Alicia developed programing for law students centering on career development, professionalism, and Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion. Currently, Alicia is an adjunct professor for OU Law teaching Education Law. Alicia is very active in her community, volunteering on several Boards emphasizing the importance of education.
